

The following is from an organization called Impact. I don't know much about it; here is a link to a site that has reviews:
https://www.glassdoor.com/Overview/Working-at-Impact-EI_IE940939.11,17.htm

Here's the message I received from the organization:
Her name is Sophia Lipp and she's a Journalism major at Boston University. She recently built support for our Global Warming Solutions campaign by writing opinion media, calling local media outlets and pitching them on our campaign events, and even producing a video about a town hall event she helped organize.

Click here to check out Sophia's video!
(https://youtu.be/c6DN_T97gPU)

https://youtu.be/c6DN_T97gPU

We love watching people grow into motivated activists, like Sophia, who is now the Constituent Services Intern with the Office of Massachusetts Governor Charlie Baker. We're looking forward to the next group of organizers and interns who will join the Impact team in the year to come.

Students can apply today at by clicking here!
(http://weareimpact.org/internship-apply.html?utm_source=MailChimp&utm_medium=email&utm_campaign=Impactspring2017)