

Scarlet Listeners is an undergraduate student run peer counseling, crisis, and referral hotline at Rutgers University. We have existed in various capacities for more than 40 years now. Our listeners answer calls from Rutgers students, all over New Jersey, and even the National Suicide Prevention Lifeline. As listeners, we speak to people going through a large variety of situations: some people call to talk about their days while others call in crisis - we are here to provide support to anyone who reaches out. Some of the topics people talk with us about include: relationships, bullying, LGBTQIAA, anxiety, depression, stress, suicide and other crises.

Meeting on Thursday, February 2nd 8:30-9:30pm BSC 122A.
