

Education and Public & Human Services Meetup: Graduate School Planning Tuesday, February 13, 2018 3:00 PM - 4:00 PM Carr Library, Career Collections Room

Are you considering pursuing an advanced degree? If you're interested, join us for a better understanding of the graduate school admissions process. In this meetup, you'll learn the key tools you'll need for your grad school applications, including figuring out which exams to take, learning how to approach professors for recommendation letters, and how to start writing your personal statement. You'll also learn about the tools and resources at University Career Services that will support you during the application process. Your meetup hosts will be industry-savvy career development specialist Sylvia Cordero and senior lead peer career advisor Elena Lee.

Bring your laptop or tablet and your career questions! ABOUT CAREER MEETUPS: Career Meetups are informal, casual meetings that take place in various areas across campus and are co-facilitated by one of our full-time cluster-specific Career Advisors and a student Peer Career Advisor. They begin with a brief presentation followed by open discussion. Think of these as small group advising sessions which provide an opportunity for meaningful dialogue.
