Leadership, Service and Sense of Community; Perspectives from Jewish Tradition and Psychology
Professor Maurice Elias
Tillett 246 T1,2(8:40-11:40am)

Prerequisite: 830:101, open to So/Jr/Sr

This course will explore how contemporary community psychological perspectives on leadership, service, and sense of community have roots in Jewish tradition, particularly as conveyed in the Bible. In particular, we will explore how current ideas and practices can be informed by those roots, and their implications for improving personal, organizational, and community leadership competence.
