

Vanessa H. Bal, PhD has an opening for a research assistant, starting early 2019 (Jan/Feb –flexibility in exact date).

Anyone who might be interested: <https://jobs.rutgers.edu/postings/79795>.

Many exciting opportunities for trainees seeking clinical research experience as I build my new lab at Rutgers! Projects span psychophysiology, clinical phenotyping and assessment of treatment outcomes. I'm primarily focusing on adults with ASD, but there will likely be some child and adolescent opportunities, as well.

Anyone interested can contact Dr. Bal directly with their CV
