

Mind in Media is an organization that helps students learn about film through a psychiatry lens. Our club provides a unique opportunity for students to connect with experts in the fields of film studies and mental health, including Robert Wood Johnson Medical School Assistant Professor of Psychiatry Dr. Anthony Tobia (who is also a mentor for our club), as well as, film makers who collaborate with him. Members of the club are encouraged to contribute to a weekly blog and as well as participate in creating their own collaborative film that will be submitted for the APA film festival.

Below I will attach the links to our GetInvolved and Facebook pages for anyone who is interested to learn more.
