

PIRG announcement: To solve today's biggest problems, from global warming to antibiotic-resistant superbugs, we need talented advocates working to research the issues, educate decision-makers, and build support for solutions. That's the idea behind PIRG's Fellowship Program. This one-year, paid, full-time professional training program creates a pipeline of skilled advocates who go on to leadership positions with our network and other social change organizations.

Through our Fellows Program, talented recent college graduates get rigorous training and hands-on experience as they launch their careers in social change with PIRG. Our incoming class of fellows are currently working on the following pressing issues:

Global Warming Solutions, Renewable Energy, and Transportation
Consumer Protection and Public Health
Democracy for the People    Our mailing address is:
