Course Materials

Required Text

Kalat, J. W. (2014). Introduction to Psychology. (10th Edition). Cengage Learning. ISBN 978-1-305-81390-8.

To be available at New Jersey Books, 37 Easton Avenue, New Brunswick. Copies may also be available at Barnes & Noble.

A copy of the book is on reserve at the Kilmer Area Library.

This includes access to Aplia, an online homework system that includes automatically graded problems tailored to the textbook for this course. A fully interactive eBook is included with Aplia. The eBook will allow you to highlight, take notes, and bookmark pages.

Aplia provides you with a grace period of 21 days to perform homework problems and access study tools at no cost. You can use this trial period if you are uncertain about whether or not you will take this course. After 21 days, your account will be closed if you do not purchase Aplia.

To access Aplia, click on the "Cengage Learning" tab on the left. Select "I'll pay later" and click on "Go to my course." You will be asked to enter your RUID. This is the 9-digit number Rutgers assigned to you, with 0 as the 4th and 5th digits. Enter this, with no blanks or dashes. Enter your RUID a second time to confirm. Next, click on Accept to "voluntarily grant permission to Aplia to provide [your] student identification number ... for administrative purposes."

It is important that you enter your RUID correctly. If you don't you will not get credit for any of the assignments you complete. If you did not enter it correctly, you can edit it by clicking on your name in the top, right corner of the screen and selecting "My Profile." Click on "Edit Profile." Then you will be able to click on the blue "Edit" link to resubmit your RUID. Once you have done that, your scores will be recorded.

Once you decide that you are going to keep this course, click on one of the payment options.

About General Psychology – Course Goals:

In this course we will discuss most of the areas encompassed by the discipline of psychology. The Psychology Department offers at least one full-semester course providing a deeper investigation into each of the topics we will cover; you should have an understanding of what psychologists do and how they go about their work at the end of the semester. You should also improve your critical thinking skills as a result of taking this course.

Exams and Grading:

You are expected to comply with Rutgers' Academic Integrity Policy. Early in the semester there will be an online quiz in which you indicate that you have read the Syllabus and agree to its terms, including compliance with the Academic Integrity Policy. This quiz does not count toward your grade, however you must agree to these terms in order to receive your scores.

There will be three exams based on the text and other materials presented in class.

The first two exams are non-cumulative, and will consist of two parts: 40 multiple choice questions, worth 80% of the grade for that exam, and an essay question worth 20% of your grade for that exam. Each of these exams will be worth 30% of your course grade. One week prior to each exam, four essay questions will be posted online. Two of those questions will be selected for the exam; you will be required to answer either one of them in class. A sample essay question and answer will be posted before the first exam to give you some guidance as to what is expected. The third exam will also consist of two parts. The first part will be 50 multiple choice questions covering the material since the second exam. This will also be worth 30% of your course grade. The second part will be 24 multiple choice questions covering all the material in the course, and will be worth 4% of your course grade.

There is an Aplia assignment for each chapter of the text; these will also contribute toward your grade. The current assignment is available by clicking on the "Cengage Learning" tab on sakai. (If sakai is unavailable, you can access this site at login.cengage.com.) You will be able to take each of these assignments three times. Your highest score on each will be used in calculating your points. For each exam, you can earn up to 20 points, for a total of 6% of your course grade, based on your scores on the Aplia assignments. If you score 90% of the points possible on the Aplia assignments, you will earn 18 points; 75% of the Aplia assignments will give you 15 points, etc. The following table summarizes the sources of your points:

Source	Component	Points	Total Points
Exam I	Multiple Choice	240
	Essay	60
	Aplia assignments	20
	Exam I Total		320
Exam II	Multiple Choice	240
	Essay	60
	Aplia assignments	20
	Exam II Total		320
Exam III	Non-cumulative Multiple Choice	300
	Aplia assignments	20
	Cumulative Multiple Choice	40
	Exam III Total		360
Course Total			1000

You are responsible for bringing pencils with erasers to each exam. You may bring a pen for the essay questions if you wish. You must also bring your Rutgers ID Card to the exam.

Exam scores will be posted on the PostEm tab on sakai. Whenever scores are posted, the grade scale will be updated so that the letter grade you see corresponds to your current grade based on the total number of points (including extra credit) you have earned.

If you have questions about your score on a Multiple Choice exam, you can discuss them with Dr. Ackroff. If you have a question about your essay questions, you must discuss it with your Teaching Assistant. In either case, you should do this before the next exam.

If you have a schedule conflict with an exam, you may be allowed to take a makeup exam at the discretion of the instructor. You must notify the instructor of your absence before the exam is given in order to be allowed to take a makeup. If you miss an exam, you will be allowed to take a makeup exam only if you provide documentation for a valid reason for missing the exam. For absences due to colds, etc., a note from your Health Center or doctor will be acceptable. This note must indicate that you were not able to take the exam at the scheduled time. For more serious issues such as a death in the family or serious health or personal issues, you may present a note from your Dean's office verifying that you missed the exam due to an excused absence. This note must indicate that you provided independent, third-party documentation of the situation. In any case, your note must also indicate when you will be able to make up the exam. You should give this note to the instructor within 1 week of your return to class. If you cannot document that you had a valid reason for missing an exam, you may be allowed to take a makeup exam, but your score will be reduced by 15%. Whether or not you will be allowed to make up an exam under these circumstances is solely at the discretion of the instructor.

If an exam is cancelled or postponed on the day of the exam, there will be a member of the Psychology Department in the room at the scheduled time to make the announcement. Notices posted on doors or the blackboard are likely to be hoaxes.

Grading in this course works differently from most other courses. Final grades will be determined by the total number of points you score on the Multiple Choice exams and essay questions.

At the end of the semester, the point total for all exams is computed for each student, and an absolute frequency distribution is made. Outliers at the high end of the distribution (up to 3% of the students) are not used to compute grades. The highest remaining point total after the outliers have been excluded is used as the base for computing students' grades.

- Students whose point total is 90.00% or more of the base receive A grades.
- Students whose point total is 88.00 to 89.99% of the base receive B+ grades.
- Students whose point total is 80.00 to 87.99% of the base receive B grades.
- Students whose point total is 78.00 to 79.99% of the base receive C+ grades.
- Students whose point total is 70.00 to 77.99% of the base receive C grades.
- Students whose point total is 60.00 to 69.99% of the base receive D grades.

Extra credit points (see below) are added to the total number of points you score after the cutoffs have been determined.

Research Participation

The Psychology Department requires that students in General Psychology fulfill a research participation requirement. Details on what this requirement is and how it can be met are available here. Note that you must be at least 18 years of age to participate in experiments. If you are not 18 at the start of the semester and will not turn 18 early in the semester, you should strongly consider fulfilling the requirement using the "Papers" option.

When you register, make sure you use your NetId. This is the ID you use to sign on to sakai.

- It is not your 9-digit RUID.
- It is not your name in "first.last" format.
- It is most certainly not your gmail (or other non-Rutgers) email address.

Registering with an ID other than your NetID is likely to result in your RPU's not being credited to you.

If you choose to fulfill the requirement using the "Papers" option, you must submit a copy of your paper in class and electronically on sakai by the due dates in the schedule below. Information on electronic submission will be made available on sakai a week before the first paper is due.

Failure to meet the requirement will result in a reduction of your total course exam points by one-half a standard deviation of the total point distribution for the class. This could lower your course grade by a full letter grade.

Practice Exams

Practice Exams will be made available on sakai. There is a Long Form and Short Form for each exam. The Long Practice Exam is involved in Extra Credit (see below). It will be available for several days before the exam, after all the material has been covered in class. After that, the Short Practice Exam will be available until shortly before the actual exam. The content-related questions are the same on both exams. You may take the Long Practice Exam only once; you may take the Short Practice Exam as often as you wish.

Extra Credit:

You can earn 6 extra credit points for each exam. In order to do this, you must take the Long Practice Exam and score at least 70%, and answer two extra questions on the actual exam. (Half of the questions on the Long Practice Exam ask you how confident you are in your answers; you automatically get them right just for answering them. This means you only have to answer 40% of the content-related questions correctly to get a total of 70% on the exam.) The two questions on the actual exam ask you how well you think you did, and how confident you are in your estimate. You don't have to predict your score correctly, but you must answer these questions in order to receive extra credit.

Note that these are the only opportunities available for extra credit.

Attendance and Correspondence Policies:

- Attendance: You should attend all meetings of all of your classes. My lectures are based on the material in the assigned readings, but may also cover material not discussed in the readings. You are responsible for all of this material.

If you arrive late or must leave before class is over, please sit near a door and try to be as inconspicuous as possible. It is distracting to everyone to have people walking in and out of the classroom during class.

Classes are held according to the schedule below as long as the University is open. If the weather appears to be threatening, you can check the Campus Operating Status here.

If a class is cancelled, postponed, or moved on the day of class, there will be a member of the Psychology Department in the room at the scheduled time to make the announcement. Notices posted on doors or the blackboard are likely to be hoaxes.

- Classroom Etiquette: Please turn off all cell phones, etc., before class begins.

Please note that you may not make any type of recording without my written consent.

If you wish to use a laptop computer to take notes, that is fine. If you wish to use a laptop computer to surf the web, play games, IM your friends, etc., I would suggest you go to the nearest Student Center. This advice also applies to having side discussions with your classmates, reading newspapers, doing puzzles, etc.

- Questions: I encourage you to ask questions during class. If something is unclear, or if you have a question related to the material being discussed, please ask your question then. Chances are that some of your classmates would also like some additional discussion of the topic.
- Email: I try to answer email promptly. Having said that,
  - Please use a Subject that gives me some idea what you are writing about. This is especially important if you send mail from an account other than eden. Mail from sexgoddess@aol.com with a subject of "hello" is likely to be considered spam and deleted unread.
  - If you ask me a question whose answer is on the course web page or Syllabus, my reply is likely to say that.
  - If you ask me a question about your standing in the course, please include your name and which course and section you are enrolled in.
  - Please re-read the section on "Questions" above. I realize that there are times when you are reviewing notes after class and/or before an exam when you will discover that you have a question. But it is in everyone's best interest for you to ask your questions in class, rather than after the fact, if you have a question while class is in session.
  - You are responsible for any announcements, etc., I send to the class via email.
