

you are very creative, shoot a short video about a recent research finding. Schedule with me to share your work with the class.

Grading standards may be lowered, but will not be raised.

A = 225 or above

B = 200 – 225

C = 175 – 199 And I hope no one earns below a C!

Academic integrity: Sanctions for cheating in any form can result in failing the course or, for more severe violations, temporary or permanent separation from the university. Familiarize yourself with the university's policies on academic integrity by visiting the following website <http://academicintegrity.rutgers.edu/> and reading the material for students. I take violations of the academic integrity policies very seriously and have taken action and will take action against students who violate the policies. Keep in mind that cheating on an exam or a paper can completely derail your future plans and ambitions. A history of an academic integrity violation will keep you out of law school, medical school and most graduate programs.

Behavior in class: As adults, all students are expected to behave in a manner that is conducive to learning. However, should your behavior be perceived by me to be disruptive to fellow students in the class, I will ask you to leave the classroom, and if this occurs again, then you or any disruptive student may be judged unable to successfully complete the course with a passing grade. Your cell phone ringer should be set to vibrate, you should not be texting in class, and if you are using a laptop or tablet, it should be to take notes. You should not be having off-topic discussions with other students during class, playing games or watching videos.

Attendance and Absences: Absences for religious observances and participation in university-sponsored events (such as varsity athletics or performance in a university-sponsored ensemble) will be excused and, if necessary, you will be permitted to make up missed work. Otherwise, you are expected to attend all classes unless you are ill. However, there are no explicit penalties for lack of attendance. You may not make up quizzes or exams that you miss without a valid excuse. If you are seriously ill or injured and miss two or more weeks of classes, you should notify your dean because that is likely to affect your grades and possibly your academic standing.

The university has implemented a system for student self-reporting of incidental absences. If you are going to be absent or have been absent, some professors expect you to report that through the system. I don't. A link to the Student Self-Reporting of Absences system is posted below. I do not read these, but am required to include this information on the syllabus.

Grades: I do not change grades unless a computational error has been made. Begging, crying, attempted bribes (really, students (but not honors students) have tried that!) will not work. If you need a certain average to stay in the honors program, to keep financial aid, or just to keep your parents from nagging you, read the assignments before class every week, attend class regularly, participate, start working on your paper early, submit your paper on time, take the quizzes on time, and review frequently by testing your memory for the material. Elaborative encoding, elaborative rehearsal, and distributed review of course material will lead to greatly improved retention of the material and decent grades in this and almost every course.

Missed exams and conflicts: If you miss an exam, in general you get a zero. Don't miss exams. If you have an unavoidable conflict, for a religious observance, participation in a university-sponsored event, or a scheduled medical procedure, let me know ahead of time. In the case of extraordinary circumstances (hospitalization, death in the family) you will have to produce documentation; with acceptable documentation, we can make arrangements for a makeup. Many students claim that a grandparent has died around the time of an exam. You will need to produce a legitimate obituary that lists you as a surviving grandchild in order for this excuse to be accepted.

Special arrangements: If you are entitled to extended testing time or other testing accommodations, provide me with the documentation from the Office of Disability Services, and I will work with them to arrange alternate administration of your exams and online quizzes. Identify yourself early in the term. If you wait until just before an exam, there may be a considerable delay.

If things go horribly wrong in this course, other courses, or your life: the University has many resources to help you. The faculty and staff want you to thrive at the University and to succeed academically and socially. Ask for help as soon as you realize there is a problem. If you don't know what resources are available, I will refer you.

If you are a freshman or a transfer student: the transition to life at a large university is difficult for many students. You are not alone and there are resources to help you. Some of these are listed on the next page.
