This course surveys the growth of Psychology as an academic and applied discipline in the Western world with a focus on the U.S. The goals of the course are to familiarize you with the major ideas that have shaped the development of Psychology and to provide a context for the paths Psychology has taken over the past century. Although the formal discipline of Psychology did not emerge until late in the 19th century, we will begin by tracing its roots in the domains of Philosophy and Physiology. Then we shall consider the rise of several schools of Psychology in the late 19th and early 20th centuries and, ultimately, the decline of these schools during the second half of the 20th century. The latter period has been characterized by an increasingly eclectic and interdisciplinary approach to Psychology.

A set of readings is posted at the Sakai Resources site in lieu of a textbook. These readings are articles or excerpts from writings by psychologists who will be discussed in class.

Power point slides are posted at the Sakai Resources site corresponding to the class topics. They do not cover all the course material and are not a substitute for attending class.

Evaluation: Your grade will be based on the number of points you accumulate.

	Points
Quiz 1	20
Quiz 2	20
Quiz 3	25
Quiz 4	35
Quiz 5	35
Final exam	60
2 Class surveys (5 pts. and 10 pts.)	15
Attendance (1 pt per class; maximum 20)	20
Total possible points	230

(Note: There is no extra credit; you can earn 35 free points from the surveys and attendance – that's 15% of the total points.)

Quizzes: Quizzes will be given at 11 a.m. (1/2 way through the period). Quizzes cover material presented in class and the main points of the readings. If you miss a quiz, a make-up will be available providing that you have an acceptable excuse (e.g., illness with documentation). Contact the T.A. regarding missed quizzes. A make-up quiz must be completed within 1 week of the original quiz.

Final exam: Forty points of the final exam will cover the material after Quiz 5. Twenty points of the final will be 2 essay questions. I will give you a few essay questions in advance so you can prepare, and then I will select two of those questions for you to answer on the final.

Class surveys: There will be 2 class surveys. The first (5 pts.) will be distributed at the first class (9/6); the 2nd (10 pts.) at the final class (12/10).

Attendance: Attendance will be taken every class; you earn 1 point for every class you attend up to a maximum of 20 points.

Grades: Grades are based on a modified curve. I take the cluster of top scores in the class and set that as the 100% point; 90% of that total is an A; 87% a B+, 80% a B; 77% a C+, 70% a C, 60% a D; below 60% is not passing. (For example, if the top scores are around 200 of the possible 230 points, then 200 points becomes the 100% benchmark. A would be 180 and above; B+ 174-179; B 160-173; C+ 154-159; C 140-153; D 120-139. Note, this is an example and NOT the actual cutoffs that will be used. Those will be determined by the performance of the class which, of course, I cannot know in advance.)

Sakai site: The Resources tab at the course Sakai site contains many of the power points that will be covered in class. Titles of power point files correspond to topics discussed in class (p. 4). I suggest you print them and bring them to class to which you can add notes from the class discussion. Announcements will be posted at Sakai for any changes that may occur in assignments or classes during the semester. Exam scores will be posted at Sakai Gradebook.

Classroom behavior: To minimize disruption to others and to protect my fragile ego, please do not use your phone or computer for tasks unrelated to the course. Feel free to ask questions and add relevant information from other classes.

Integrity: In addition to the University's integrity policy as described below, you may not have your cell phone, computer, or any papers and books open or on your desk during an exam. If you need to use the restroom during an exam, leave your phone with me or the T.A.

Rutgers Academic Integrity Policy:

Violations include: cheating, fabrication, plagiarism, denying others access to information or material, and facilitating violations of academic integrity.

All suspected cases of cheating and plagiarism will be referred to the Office of Judicial Affairs. The university's policy on Academic Integrity is available at <http://academicintegrity.rutgers.edu/academic-integrity-policy>

Rutgers definition of plagiarism:

Plagiarism is the use of another person's words, ideas, or results without giving that person appropriate credit. To avoid plagiarism, every direct quotation must be identified by quotation marks or appropriate indentation and both direct quotation and paraphrasing must be cited properly according to the accepted format for the particular discipline or as required by the instructor in a course. Some common examples of plagiarism are:

- Copying word for word (i.e. quoting directly) from an oral, printed, or electronic source without proper attribution.
 - Paraphrasing without proper attribution, i.e., presenting in one's own words another person's written words or ideas as if they were one's own.
 - Submitting a purchased or downloaded term paper or other materials to satisfy a course requirement.
 - Incorporating into one's work graphs, drawings, photographs, diagrams, tables, spreadsheets, computer programs, or other nontextual material from other sources without proper attribution.
- Additional resources for information on plagiarism:
