Course Description: Community psychology (CP) is the branch of psychology most closely associated with how our society produces competent or dysfunctional citizens. It is especially concerned with the socialization institutions through which our children and youth pass (such as schools and families) and with the systems we have set up to help people when they have difficulties (i.e., mental health centers; psychiatric hospitals and other clinical services). American CP (it is an international field) is also concerned with social institutions, including those involved in supporting our democracy. So, there is particular relevance to this course this semester, as we watch the unfolding of potentially new social and political arrangements and perspectives on diversity and democracy.

As you can imagine, CP is highly concerned about the governmental shortcomings and societal inequities illuminated by the COVID-19 pandemic. CP also is concerned with the systemic racism brought forcefully to awareness by George Floyd’s murder. CP also is concerned with why our lack of preparedness for the pandemic and the lack of urgency about racism were “pre-existing conditions” in our society, and with the continuing dynamics that gave rise to the assault on the US Capitol in January 2021. Community psychologists recognize the impact of current events on community mental health and they are committed to improving it through research and social intervention programs such as prevention, citizen participation, environmental change, and influencing public policy.

This course will provide you with the tools to analyze and engage in social action on the issues that surround us. Our mental health and wellbeing, from children to senior citizens, introduce the background and content of community mental health and community psychology, present the key concepts involved and, through the use of examples and “lab activities,” acquaint students with the methods community psychologists use. There will be a particular emphasis on our emerging understanding of what is happening in our democratic institutions, the role of cross-cultural competence, and the processes by which we prepare young people- including college-aged adults—for roles in civic life.

In addition to our textbook and supplemental readings, we also will read Reclaiming youth at risk: Our hope for the future. This book, written by individuals who probably have never heard of community psychology, is nevertheless an exemplary application of CP principles to those working with youth at risk at the individual, group, and/or systems levels. Through this book, we will explore a different, more positive perspective on mental health; you will see through youth-related examples how CP embodies conceptualization across the full range of ecological levels and “levels” of prevention: primary, secondary, and tertiary, even though one’s action plans may not explicitly address all of those levels.

Because this course is a CESEP/Collaborative (Rutgers’ Center for Community-Based Research and Service) course, the perspective taken throughout the course will be one that focuses on the processes that lead to competence, strength, and resilience, and how these are necessary if children are to grow to become productive citizens in a democracy. We look especially at the role of environments in fostering this growth and how the relevant issues should become matters of public concern and policy. Finally, there will be an emphasis throughout on services for children and adolescents and the nature of volunteer and professional applied work, such as field work, field research, applied, school, and community psychology internship experiences, and involvement in community service and advocacy.

Course Objectives: The goals of the course are that students:

1. Understand the role of social, political, and economic factors in the development of community approaches to mental health care, with a focus on civic engagement.
2. Develop a working knowledge of different approaches to prevent psychological disorder and promote community mental health and begin to think about how these can be practically implemented, especially in cross-cultural contexts.
3. Understand the application of ecological, developmental, and systems theories and community psychology values to the study of interpersonal adaptation and critical community problems such as child abuse and neglect; achievement gaps in education; substance abuse; delinquency; poverty.
4. Develop familiarity with various skills necessary for community-related work, including force field and policy analysis, program planning, and public communication.
- 5.. Typically, but uncertain for this semester due to COVID-19 restrictions, interested students can register for a one credit Public Scholarship and Service Internship/field accompaniment that provides an opportunity to integrate course learning with a community service placement at Middlesex or Monmouth County Head Start Centers in New Brunswick, Perth Amboy, or other sites in Central New Jersey, or in Trenton. This involves being assigned to a specific preschool classroom for one morning or afternoon per week for about 10 weeks of the semester. ALL ARRANGEMENTS ARE HANDLED VIA EMAIL, INCLUDING THE SYLLABUS, OPEN SLOTS FOR PLACEMENTS, RECITATION TIMES, AND REGISTRATION AND ORIENTATION DETAILS. Under normal circumstances, there are a large number of openings, but criteria for selection will include a confirmed scheduling match with the openings. There are also requirements for a background check, fingerprinting, and a recent TB test and students must attend the Collaborative orientation, time and location to be determined. Students who have done this program before may repeat; you will be in a special, “Advanced Head Start/Collaborative” recitation and you may have somewhat more advanced responsibilities than you had previously, but we do not know yet what will happen in the Fall 2021 semester.

LOGISTICS:

The class web site is on Canvas and NOT ON SAKAI!!! To get to course materials, go to canvas.rutgers.edu and log in with your NetID and password and find our class! Our documents are under Files—Class Sharing.

I will be communicating with you via email through the class web site. So please check your university email address, since that is the one that Canvas uses. I will be sending notifications about scheduling, assignments, and materials. Most course materials will be available for download at the site. We will make arrangements for you to submit your assignments to the CANVAS web site and get them returned from me with comments in the same way.

Technology Requirements:

This is a synchronous class—it will occur in the time frame indicated on the syllabus as a live stream on my part. I will be replicating the interactivity I have with my live classes. There will be breakout rooms, and conversations in the chat box and verbally.

For this class, you will need to access CANVAS and Zoom. I will expect you to follow Zoom etiquette and mute your microphone when you are not speaking so we don't hear background noise. I expect you to attend class with cameras on. There is significant research that supports this requirement. If you are having bandwidth issues, you will need to speak with me about it and demonstrate that you have sought help from the Help Desk and they are able to confirm that the only way you can attend the class is with your camera off.

Please visit the Rutgers Student Tech Guide page for resources available to all students. If you do not have the appropriate technology for financial reasons, please email Dean of Students deanofstudents@echo.rutgers.edu for assistance. If you are facing other financial hardships, please visit the Office of Financial Aid at <https://financialaid.rutgers.edu/>.

Academic Expectation: Evaluations will be based on:

% of Grade

1. Class Participation: Every class will involve participation via Zoom. You will be asked to respond to questions both "live" and in the chat box. Chats will be saved, and class sessions will be recorded. Thus, it will be quite possible to determine your degree of class participation. Participation is assumed to reflect effort and interest, as well as knowledge. 10%
2. Exams: One exam will be given. It will be focused on mastery and application of key concepts and issues, as well as important points in the lectures not covered in readings. A detailed exam review will be given prior. 20%
2. R-E-Q summaries will be submitted on 3-4 readings. There is a document under Files at the CANVAS class web site that describes exactly how to do an R-E-Q (Revelations-Emotional 30% Reactions-Questions/Disagreements) writeup. You will submit these as assignments via CANVAS and feedback will be sent to you via that same mechanism.

3. Group Projects: Students will work in groups to plan and carry out two in-and-out-of-class/Zoom/Google projects. 20% each
The first is a Social Action Policy Brief Project, addressing a topic about which you are concerned as a citizen, such as the impact of poverty or racism on education and mental health, immigration, pandemic preparedness or response, housing, or mental health or transportation services at Rutgers. The second is an Action Letter written to a community leaders, media outlet or other appropriate source, providing insight and/or solutions to a community problem or issue, possible the one from your Social Action Project. SOCIAL ACTION PROJECTS ARE DUE 11/16; ACTION LETTER DRAFTS ARE DUE 11/30. Further details will be provided in separate documents at the CANVAS web site.
4. Bonus:
Do extra REQ writeups of readings TBD. 10%

Attendance: Poor attendance will minimize the likelihood of one's obtaining a good grade, let alone a useful understanding of course material. Up to two unquestioned absences are permitted, but it's a good idea to let me know in advance if you cannot attend class. When you miss a class, please use the University absence reporting website <https://sims.rutgers.edu/ssra/> to indicate the date and reason for your absence. An email is automatically sent to me. Contact the Dean of Students for notification to your professors for extended absence: <http://deanofstudents.rutgers.edu/>

Make-Up Exams: A makeup exam will only be allowed under extenuating circumstances. If missed and not made up, the exam will be considered as a zero.

Plagiarism & Cheating: I dislike even mentioning this, but all of the Psychology Department has decided to cooperate with regard to plagiarism and cheating. Either event will result in a reduction of two levels on one's course grade, and a note will be sent to the student's academic dean. Remember, Internet searches and filters can detect almost any phrase you borrow without citation. Better to be unoriginal than dishonest. If you are having trouble with the material or an assignment, see me. I am here to help you learn the course material in any way that I can.
